

Systematic Identification of Organic Compound

Systematic identification of organic compound course focuses on using different experiments, procedures and tests to identify the unknown organic compounds. Each student will perform different procedure based on specific unknown.

