

Physiology teaching lab 318

Animal physiology: Students conduct experiments to study the physiologic concepts related to the organ systems including the nervous, muscular, cardiovascular, excretory and respiratory systems. Special emphasis is given to the response to signals and analysis.

